

SCENE 1

Peter Parker talking to his peer about how to get informed on USC events.

SCENE 2

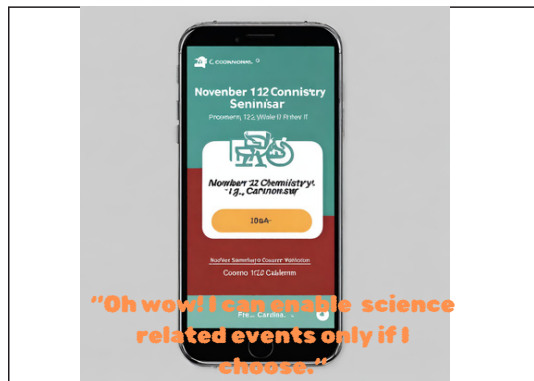

Peter Parker downloading the app.

SCENE 3

Peter wondering if he could custom his notifications

SCENE4

Peter went through the settings in the app and disabled "all events" notifications and select "science only" related events.

SCENE 5

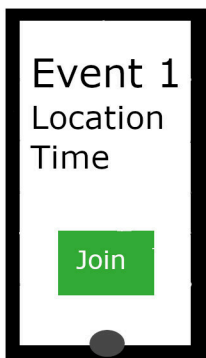

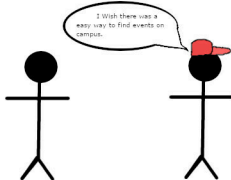

The app notified Peter on upcoming Biology Seminar in Carolina Coliseum on November 11 @ 5 P.M.

SCENE 6

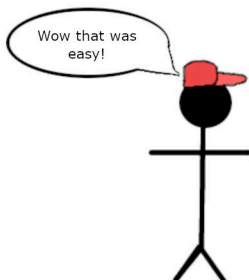

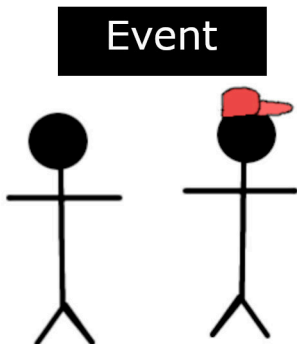

Peter attending the Biology Seminar with Dr. Connors.

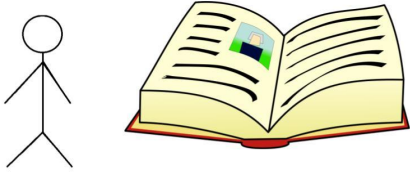

You just click the event you want to join

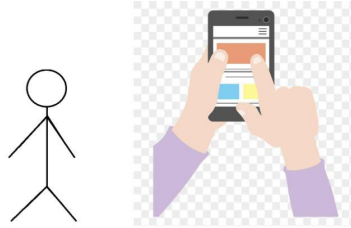

Then
Click
Join

Storyboard

Sarah is sick of studying and wants to take a break. She wants to get involved with something on campus but doesn't know where to find options!

She looks online but can't find information about multiple organizations listed in one place. Then she finds University Event Info app on her phone and is easily able to find information in one place.

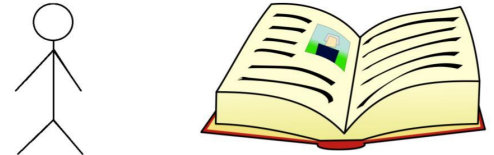

Sarah finds the time and place of the next meeting of her University Philosophy club and does some reading ahead of time so that she will be able to contribute to the conversation.

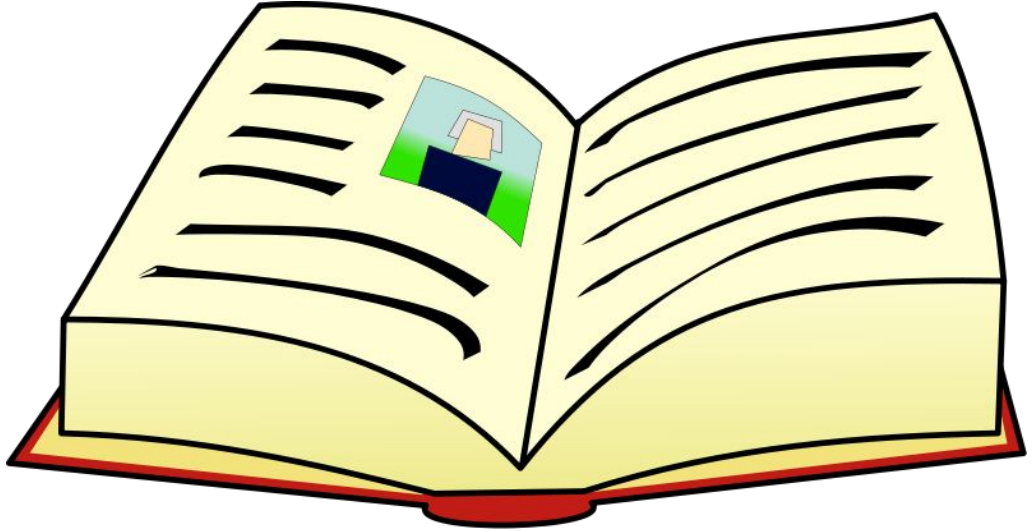

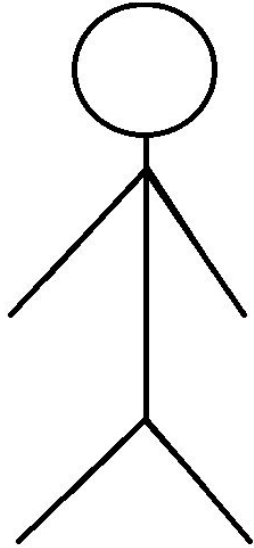

She also finds information about a service club meeting on a different day of the week.

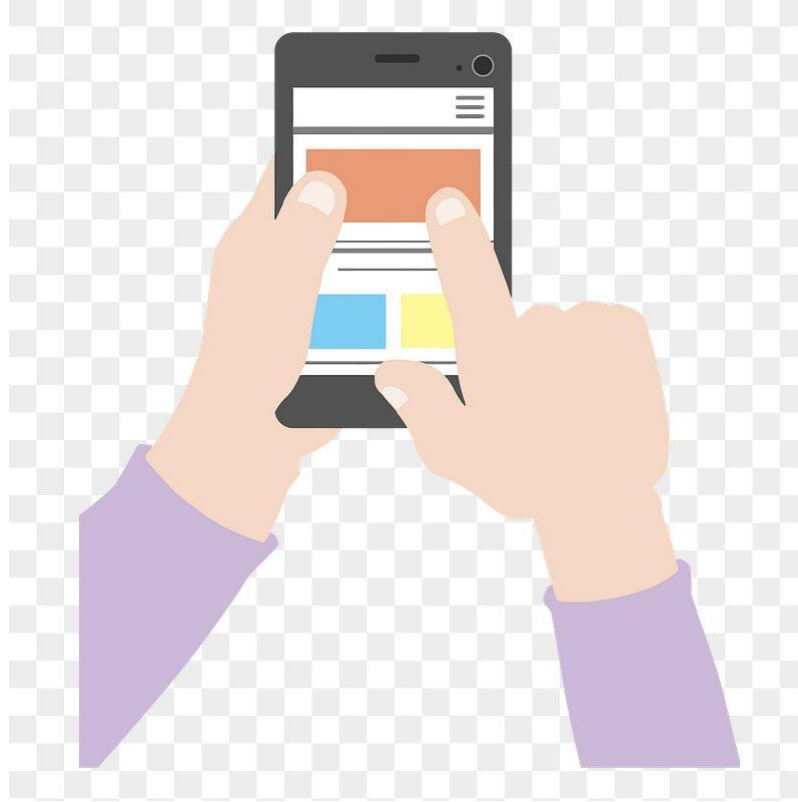

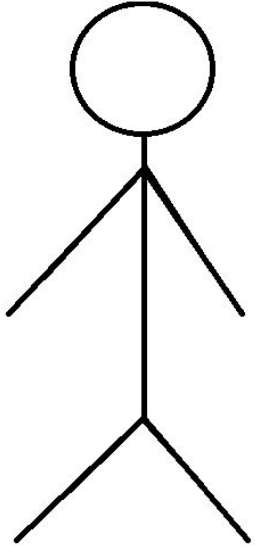

Sarah attends both club meetings and makes many friends. She now feels like a part of the campus community!

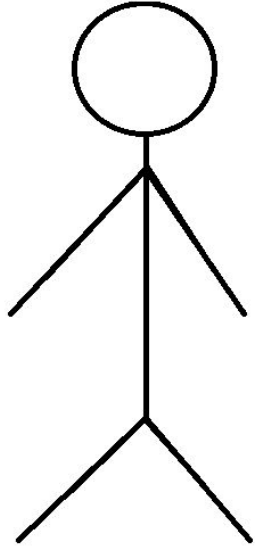

She is able to return to studying with less stress knowing that she has a fun study break built into her future schedule. All thanks to our Calendar App!

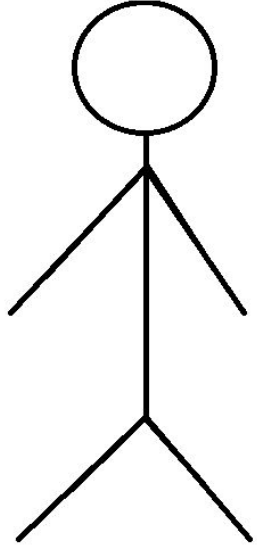

Sarah is sick of studying and wants to take a break. She wants to get involved with something on campus but doesn't know where to find options!

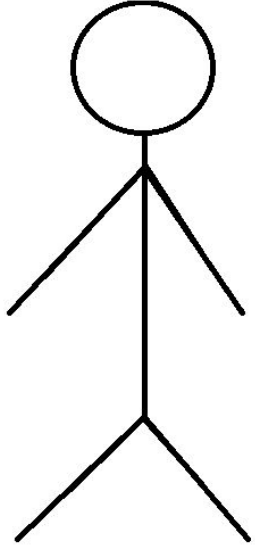

She looks online but can't find information about multiple organizations listed in one place. Then she finds University Event Info app on her phone and is easily able to find information in one place.

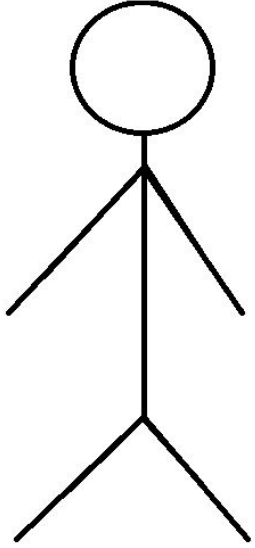

Sarah finds the time and place of the next meeting of her University Philosophy club and does some reading ahead of time so that she will be able to contribute to the conversation.

She also finds information about a service club meeting on a different day of the week.

Sarah attends both club meetings and makes many friends. She now feels like a part of the campus community!

She is able to return to studying with less stress knowing that she has a fun study break built into her future schedule. All thanks to our Calendar App!